DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wafer et al. US 5,404,615 in view of White, Jr. US 4,956,167 in view of Thompson US 4,103,868.
Wafer discloses a valve assembly (col. 2, lines 61-66) comprising a valve body having a rotary valve member (Abstract) and a valve stem, a valve handle 10 connected to the valve stem 14 having a proximal end 16 and a distal end 18 with a longitudinal axis extending between the ends, the distal end having an opening 26 that is adapted to receive a drive head 16 of a ratchet handle 100 (Figs. 6-7). The method is seen as practiced by the apparatus. Wafer lacks the valve handle connected to the valve stem at a proximal end of the handle and the opening oriented generally transverse to a length direction of the handle. White discloses a ratchet handle 20 with a square opening 27 adapted to receive a ratchet handle 22 with the opening generally transverse to the length direction of the handle. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the valve handle of Wafer connected to the valve stem at a proximal end as disclosed by White in order to provide more torque to the valve as the distance of the lever arm would be greater. Wafer lacks a rotary valve member.
Thompson discloses a rotary valve member 22. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make the valve of Wafer be a rotary valve member as disclosed by Thompson as Wafer has stated that in col. 2, lines 61-65 "which is detachably connected with the valve stem and a shear pin assembly of a valve (not shown), as is well known in the art", the rotary valve member of Thompson would provide the valve of Wafer with excellent valving operation and proper functioning

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-5 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
